PARENTS RAISE NEARLY $100,000 FOR LIBRARY GROUP STUDY ROOMS!

eedback from student surveys has been consistent and constant - Please provide more collaborative workspaces! Due to changes in students' curriculum, students increasingly have team assignments for classes. Coupled with a push from employers who want employees with teamwork skills, the demand for group study rooms has increased dramatically.

The UW Libraries was able to respond to this need. As part of the renovation in Suzzallo Library, the UW Libraries created six group study rooms, one of which is designated for disabled students. However, there were no funds for furnishings.

The parents of students in classes of 2002, 2003, 2004 and 2005 stepped in to help. In one year, $97,415 was raised from 1,842 parents and friends through our UW Parent Giving Program managed by Annual Giving.

These busy rooms, located along the 3rd floor south wall of Suzzallo Library, are now open for student use. Each room is furnished with chairs, tables, white boards and wiring for multiple computers.

For generous donations of all sizes to the UW Parent Giving Program, we are extremely thankful to each parent. A plaque (see below) has been installed to commemorate their kindness just outside the group study rooms.

DOUBLE THE RETURN ON YOUR INVESTMENT

any of our donors are not aware of the power or possibilities of matching gifts, and how their personal gift can double or triple, just by filling out a short form from their employers. Thousands of companies have matching gift programs - inquire with your personnel office to see if your company is one of them.

For example, Joanne and Richard Akeroyd wanted to make a contribution to the UW Libraries. As a tribute to the Libraries' staff for being so extraordinary and to empathize with their workplace dislocation during the Suzzallo seismic upgrade, the Akeroyds dedicated a gift of $1,000 to furnishings and equipment for the renovated Libraries' staff lounge. They knew how difficult it would be to replace the old furnishings in a time of budget deficits.

The Akeroyd's generous gift blossomed into $4,000 through the use of the matching gifts offered by the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation. The UW Libraries was able to purchase a range and refrigerator as well as chairs for the room

The staff lounge reopened in September, furnished to refresh the many library staff that will use it for years to come. A plaque recognizing the Akeroyds and other donors will be placed in the room.

AN EVENING WITH ARTISTS DENNIS EVANS AND NANCY MEE

rtists Nancy Mee and Dennis Evans presented the 2002 Artist Images lecture on October 5. The audience included many strong supporters of the Libraries including Anne Gould Hauberg who several years ago initiated an endowment to help fund this event, and to produce a bookmark featuring the artist's work

Nancy Mee and Dennis Evans captivated the audience with tales of their creative journeys - how they became artists; why they selected certain materials for their sculptures and paintings and the ways in which they developed creatively, separately and as a couple, in careers spanning over two decades.
