

Ernst Wolff

Ernst Wolff was a Subject Specialist in the Far Eastern Library from 1961 to 1963. His job duties included order work (one area in particular was ordering Western language books in the China and Inner Asia fields), correspondence, filing, some cataloging, book selection, and circulation.

Ernst enrolled in the University of Washington School of Librarianship in 1960. While still a student, he worked full-time in the Far Eastern Library. After obtaining his Masters of Librarianship degree in 1962, he pursued the study of Chinese literature, earning a Ph.D. from the Far Eastern and Russian Institute at UW. He would later go on to become Far Eastern Librarian and Professor of Chinese at the University of Illinois.

Yung S. ("James") Chao

Yung S. (James) Chao was a Library Assistant at the Far Eastern Library from approximately 1965 until approximately 1974.
